What do Course Directors do?

Course Directors (CDs) are responsible for coordinating and conducting CAOHC-approved, assessment-based certificate training courses for Occupational Hearing Conservationists. Course Directors work as team members in hearing loss-prevention programs.

CAOHC makes it easy for you...

- Training workshops are held 1 or 2 times per year.
- Use CAOHC videos to assist you in teaching the course.
- CAOHC registers class participants, provides administrative support, mentors and helps with marketing assistance.
- Customize your classes based on your strengths, hire faculty for subject areas where you need help.
- In-demand courses often fill themselves.

The perks of partnership...

- Work independently.
- Set your own hours, days, times.
- Smoothly transition to or from another job.
- Work part time or full time.
- This is a fulfilling career option for Audiologists, COHNs and others in the occupational health field.
