OSHA is requesting nominations

OSHA is requesting nominations for membership on its Federal Advisory Council on Occupational Safety and Health (FACOSH). Nominations must be submitted by September 22, 2023. For more information or to submit a nomination, please visit the nominations page.

New Resources for Heat Illness Prevention

OSHA has two new resources available for download.

The first is a “Don’t Wait... HYDRATE” Sticker available in English and Spanish. These stickers can be given to workers and placed around the workplace and in break areas to encourage drinking cool water. To download, click here.

The second is a “Heat Illness Illustrated Fact Sheet.” This fact sheet shows how heat illness can be prevented and actions to take when workers experience symptoms. To download, click here.

Fact Sheet on Expanded Reporting Requirements

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) issued a Final Rule that will become effective on January 1, 2024, amending its occupational injury and illness recordkeeping regulation. Establishments with 100 or more employees in certain designated industries will be required to electronically submit information from their OSHA Forms 300 and 301 once a year.

In preparation for this change, OSHA released a new fact sheet to help employers understand the recently-expanded requirements for electronically submitting injury and illness information.

For more information, please visit OSHA's Injury and Illness Recordkeeping and Reporting Requirements website, OSHA's Press Release \(Spanish\) and Federal Register Notice. Please share this information with your members and/or stakeholders, as appropriate.
